

EASY FOR DICK O'BRIEN.

HE KNOCKS "DR." FAYNE GROSSLY IN THE SECOND ROUND.

The referee then stops the bout. The "Other Two" "Gos" at Massport Full of Glory—A Draw Between Gorman and Flaherty—Sammy Kelly Whips Mike Sears.

THE BOUT OF DICK O'BRIEN, April 6.—It took Dick O'Brien of Boston less than two minutes and a half of one-sided fighting in the second round, the crowd began to leave in disgust. Only the intervention of Referee Carroll prevented a knock-out, for Payne was like a dummy as he reeled around the ring. The contest was another case of a man with inflated fists as to his ability as a boxer. Kelly, who said nothing but could fight like a real pugilist.

In the preliminary battles Martin Flaherty and Johnny Gorman fought an eight-round draw, and Sammy Kelly bested Mike Sears in a twelve-round contest. Mayor Gleason was not present.

As on the occasion of the club opening tournament, the weather was anything but propitious for the lovers of prize fighting, who made the short trip on the trolley cars to the entrance of the arena. Although the rain did not fall, a heavy fog made things so unpleasant that the crowd arrived in a hazy and gloomy mood. Still, the moment they got inside the building they forgot their troubles and began speculating on the probable results of the slated encounters.

Another effort was made on the part of some of the officials and citizens of Long Island City to prevent the bout between Kelly and O'Brien from taking place. The opposition took the form of a petition to the Grand Jury of Queens county for a warrant to stop the boxing. The petition was signed by William Smith, President of the Common Council, and Henry F. Kaufman, Supervisor of Long Island City, as similar to the one presented to the preceding Justice Martin J. Keogh. The opposition, however, met with no degree of success.

Mayor Gleason's blue-coated policemen were largely in evidence, but they were not expected to interfere with the night's sport unless ordered to do so by the Mayor. In view of the fact that the Mayor had been sleeping in the Mayor's presence a few weeks ago, it was almost certain that Gleason would allow the fighting to proceed to the limit.

Of course, the star event, a twenty-round bout at 158 pounds, between Dick O'Brien, the champion middleweight, and "Dr." James E. Payne of Cleveland, monopolized the comments. Payne was unknown to the followers of pugilism hereabouts, and was said to be a young physician worth $40,000. His love for boxing and his unexpected success over Billy Hennessy in three rounds were the reasons for his making the fight. His friends of pugilism, it was stated, and his friends predicted success for him. In O'Brien he found an undoubted rival who has had abundant experience in the ring. Payne realized all this, and he was surprised at McGeeby did when he saw that Tommaso, at Massport. The Cleveland had one advantage that all fighters crave. He was taller than his antagonist, and had a longer reach to solve.

Aside from this attraction there were two other affairs that promised well. One was a bout between Jimmy Carroll and the local favorite, and Martin Flaherty of Lowell, an expert who has an excellent record in the ring. The other bout was of more than ordinary interest, as it brought together Sammy Kelly of this city and Mike Sears of Lewiston, Me., who came to the scene of action in the local favorite as a fighter.

In spite of the exorbitant price that ruled the night, the fight was a success. Kelly, at 8 o'clock, kept increasing in size, however, and the fight was ready to be pulled off by a delegation that came to root for O'Brien, Flaherty and Flaherty. The crowd was so large and when they found that the odds on Kelly against Sears were 25 to 1, they covered the floor with bets. Kelly was a local favorite, and he was a local favorite. Kelly was a local favorite, and he was a local favorite.

At 8:30 o'clock there were about 1,500 persons inside of the building and twice that number on the outside. As the time approached for the fight to begin, the crowd began to grow. Kelly was a local favorite, and he was a local favorite. Kelly was a local favorite, and he was a local favorite.

Flaherty and Gorman entered the ring at 8:40 o'clock to fight eight rounds, at 126 pounds. The referee was "Brooklyn" Jimmy Carroll; the referee was "Brooklyn" Jimmy Carroll; the referee was "Brooklyn" Jimmy Carroll.

FLAG OFFICERS OF THE BROOKLYN YACHT CLUB DESIGN.

When Their Pet Hints and Unsanctioned Schemes with the Ground-Swamp Yacht Club in Defeated—The Club to Hold a Special Meeting To-morrow Night.

The members of the Brooklyn Yacht Club were considerably astonished yesterday to receive a notice stating that, owing to complications which arose at the last meeting, all of their flag officers had resigned, and that a special meeting had been called for to-morrow night at the club's city rooms, 5 Willoughby street, Brooklyn, to consider what should be done.

The Brooklyn Yacht Club is one of the oldest yachting organizations in the country, and that its chief officers should find it necessary to resign caused any amount of talk among yachtsmen yesterday as to what the trouble was all about. Briefly speaking, according to one well-informed source, the chief cause of the whole trouble is certain differences which arose between the younger and older element in the club. The old shellbacks say that no sooner had a number of the younger element been elected to office than they tried to turn the whole thing on its head, and to disorganize the club, which had been in existence for nearly forty years.

The youngsters, however, say that the old fellows are to blame for the whole trouble, and so far from disorganizing the club, they were simply trying to get the club out of a rut, and to bring it up to date. The trouble, which has been brewing for some time, was brought to a head when the present flag officers were elected. They are all young men and consist of C. H. Humphreys, Commodore, who owns the cutter Kangaroo; H. R. M. Cook, Vice Commodore, owner of the sloop Lapping, and W. R. Gorman, Rear-Commodore, the owner of the sloop Royal.

Their election, it is said, was a concession to the younger element, and as soon as they were installed in office they began to push things. They, along with a great many other of the younger yachtsmen, wanted to see the club with the club's house and anchorage on Gravesend Bay, and almost immediately began to look around for a new site. They finally hit upon what is known as the Fleet-Spear property, but as the rent demanded was so high, they decided not to buy it, but to lease it without a largely increased membership. The Gravesend Bay Yacht Club were in almost a similar predicament in regard to their property, and the proposition that the two clubs consolidate was made. A joint committee was appointed by the two clubs, and it was decided that the clubs should consolidate under the name of the Brooklyn Yacht Club, and adopt the flag of the United States.

The flag officers were naturally very much chagrined at the failure of their scheme, and immediately after the election they began to look around for a new site. They finally hit upon what is known as the Fleet-Spear property, but as the rent demanded was so high, they decided not to buy it, but to lease it without a largely increased membership. The Gravesend Bay Yacht Club were in almost a similar predicament in regard to their property, and the proposition that the two clubs consolidate was made.

A friend of the flag officers, who is also a member of the Brooklyn Yacht Club, in speaking of the trouble said: "The flag officers were naturally very much chagrined at the failure of their scheme, and immediately after the election they began to look around for a new site.
